Principal's Perspectives

Dear Northwest Christian School Family,

THANK YOU!

This morning, our staff arrived to a school that had been secretly decorated over the weekend - a recognition of our teaching staff during this week of teachers appreciation. The educators at Northwest Christian School work very hard and they are certainly feeling the love today as we kick off this week. Once again, thank you to all of you who have contributed to making this a special week for our precious staff!

For those of you who are faithful of readers of the Monday Memo, you will know that last week was a very big week for our school. After nearly a year's worth of work and preparation, I am very pleased to report that last week's accreditation was a huge success! Northwest Christian School received a full six year term of accreditation with an interim revisit in year three (6IR). This is the highest term of accreditation that is conferred for schools. Last Tuesday night, the visiting committee delivered their exit report to our NCS educators, as well as to our school board of trustees. It was a huge validation for our NCS team, a recognition of the hours and hours of hard work that gets poured into the education of every student in our school.

Perhaps the very best observation that was made by our visiting committee last week was that of the spiritual tone of our school. During the student interview portion of the visit, our students told the visiting committee that their teachers are also spiritual leaders, helping them to build closer relationships with Christ. It seems very right that after such a positive accreditation experience last week our teachers are being celebrated this week!
